Miller's Market

Did we mention our deli and bulk food?

And the high cost of transportation is driving prices up on almost everything — especially food.

You can do something about those high food prices, though. At Miller's Market in Romney we'd like to help you save money by buying in bulk quantities.

And Miller's Market has a deli that is known throughout the area as a great place to get all your meats and cheeses. Their deli prices are very reasonable and the quality is superb. Just ask around and it won't be hard to find a happy Miller's Market customer.

Miller's Market also puts customer service at the top of the list of priorities. Owner Wayne Glick and managers Kathy and Nathan Jeffreys make sure all customers are viewed as an individual, not just a number.
